CLOTHING AND ALLIED TRADES UNION OF AUSTRALIA - Second deposit.
FEDERAL OFFICE, BRANCHES & PREDECESSORS.

INCLUSIVE DATES: 1870 - 1959.

QUANTITY: 32 running feet.

NOTE: A Tailors' Society was founded in Melbourne on 22nd September 1866, which lasted until 1869 when it collapsed in financially difficulties. Refounded in June 1870 as the Tailors' Trade Protection Society, it began meeting with the Tailoresses' Society (founded by 1883) from 1905. In 1902, the Pressers' Union (founded by 1888) met with the Cutters' and Joiners' Union to form the Victorian Clothing Operatives' Union. The two unions (the VCOU and the Tailors' and Tailoresses') agreed in 1907 to become the Victorian Branch of the Federated Clothing Trades Union of the Commonwealth of Australia. The Federation was formed of similar organizations in N.S.W., Queensland and South Australia. Tasmania was regarded as part of the Victorian District until 1931. The Union was registered with the Commonwealth Conciliation and Arbitration Court on 6 June 1907, changing its name subsequently to the Federated Clothing and Allied Trades Union (13 January 1922), the Amalgamated Clothing and Allied Trades Union of Australia (4 August 1924), and, finally, to the Clothing and Allied Trades Union of Australia (22 January 1947). Western Australia joined the Federation in 1948.
